概要	As part of the Honors Program, students will improve their English knowledge and develop communication skills through practical application in English only lessons. Lessons will include the 4 skills (listening, speaking, reading and writing), but will focus on speaking and listening in class. Topics will include traditions and culture from various countries and areas, modern technology, nature and the environment, history, modern science, and other current topics. In this course, students are expected to: 1. gain international knowledge and make use of English learned to discuss a variety of topics 2. gain domestic knowledge and make use of English learned to think critically about their position in the international community
到達目標	1. To understand and discuss various current international topics in English 2. To understand how to think critically about everyday situations and modern issues 3. To be able to talk about themselves and their surroundings through communication strategies.

教授法及び課題のフィードバック方法	This class is taught entirely in English using the Berlitz Method of instruction. The class will emphasize learning expressions and critical thinking skills for presentations and discussions, with a lesser focus on grammatical accuracy. 1. Students are expected to speak only English in class; Japanese is not allowed. 2. Students should participate actively in pair and group activities, and ask questions when they do not understand an assignment. 3. Students should complete any homework assigned by the next class and be prepared to show it to the instructor.
